

Hello, my name is Jessica Larkin, I am 22 years old and from Guelph, Ontario. I began my riding career through summer camps at CJ Equestrian when I was 7 years old, and still ride there with Lyssa Caine to this day. I have spread my riding across the disciplines of eventing, showjumping, and dressage, but am currently focusing on dressage with my horse Indy. I am hoping to continue to develop her in dressage and look forward to seeing where that takes us. Outside of riding, I recently finished my 4th year at the University of Guelph studying Human Kinetics. This program has allowed me to explore my interests in movement, nutrition, and anatomy. Because of these interests, I am hoping to eventually attend school for physiotherapy to be able to help riders be the best athletes they can for their horses. I first learned about the young breeders team when a fellow rider from my barn was selected for the 2022 championships. After that, I took my horse to a free jumping clinic being hosted by some members of the young breeders team and was very interested in learning how I too could improve my ability to analyze young horses. I am looking forward to gaining experience in all aspects of the competition and getting to know my fellow teammates.
